

Annual Report

2003-2004

Since opening to students on a beautiful day in August 1997, Florida Gulf Coast University (FGCU) has exceeded all expectations! We have much to be proud of at the completion of just seven short years – and we are excited about our role as a transformational engine for Southwest Florida. Our many accomplishments have been made possible through the dedication of our students, faculty, staff, boards, advisory committees, elected officials, community partners, and donors.

We are a dynamic institution on the move, with student enrollment increasing from 2,700 in 1997 to more than 6,000 students today. We recently opened a student union, art building, sixth phase of student residences, Alico Arena, baseball and softball complex, Lee County/FGCU Aquatics Center, and most recently, Sugden Welcome Center.

Current projects under development include the WCI Green Building Demonstration and Learning Center, Kleist Health Education Center, Naples Botanical Garden Laboratory and Herbert J. Sugden Hall for Resort & Hospitality Management. These new facilities will complement our current campus buildings, and we're planning for even more growth. In addition to outstanding facilities and academic programs, FGCU's research initiatives offer significant benefit to citizens of our region and state and will be a cornerstone of new high-technology research parks under development near the campus.

Each day here, I am inspired and renewed by the enthusiasm of our students and the dedication of our faculty and staff. Significant accomplishments at FGCU both inside and outside the classroom are gaining national attention, and the entire University community is working together to deliver the best education possible.

On behalf of the University, I want to thank you for the generous gifts and the encouragement you've given us during this early period of phenomenal growth and development. I look forward to the bright future of FGCU, and our continued partnership with you.

Sincerely,

William C. Merwin
President, Florida Gulf Coast University

As a long-time resident of Southwest Florida, I have a deep sense of pride that Florida Gulf Coast University has developed into the outstanding University it is today. At every turn, the community has supported FGCU, and for that we are deeply grateful.

The Florida Gulf Coast University Foundation, Inc., a non-profit, direct support organization for Florida Gulf Coast University, is pleased to announce that it received more than $28 million in new gifts for the University in fiscal year 2003-2004. In addition, the Foundation transferred $7.3 million directly to the University from gifts, income on endowment and other operations.

On December 2, 2003, we announced the public phase of our $125 million capital campaign: Dedicated to Greatness. Through your generosity, as of June 30, 2004, we raised $115 million toward that goal. With your continued support, I am sure we will reach our goal during the 2004-2005 fiscal year.

It is only through your trust in and commitment to Florida Gulf Coast University that we will be able to continue to grow and serve our region with the excellent programs so critical to the future growth and success of our entire Southwest Florida community.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Transformation. Jack Antaramian envisions it, embraces it, and brings it about. The residents of Naples have seen him in action through the years as he led the redevelopment of the city's once-aging shopping district around Fifth Avenue South into today's vibrant residential/commercial destination. For Antaramian, it was all about envisioning the possibilities.

Jack Antaramian

So it's no surprise that his visionary knack has translated into a gift of 75 acres of prime real estate to help Florida Gulf Coast University continue to transform Southwest Florida. "We are a strong believer in the importance of education," Antaramian says. "Supporting FGCU and its goals to continually expand advanced educational opportunities only adds to the appeal of Southwest Florida. It's exciting to be a part of something that promises so much potential today and in the future."

Conservatively valued at $7.5 million, the land is slated to be the possible site of a research park, College of Education building and an FGCU-affiliated K-12 school that could be the home of 600 students in a learning environment that would provide an alternative to traditional schooling.

Charter schools can offer innovative curriculum, the newest instructional strategies, and smaller class sizes that promote more student-teacher interaction. The charter school could also help alleviate the increasing demands on local school districts caused by the continued growth in the area and the pressure that creates for classroom space for school children. The new charter school could be open as early as 2007.

As president of Naples-based Antaramian Development Corp., Antaramian has been creating master-planned residential communities, mixed-use developments and high-end commercial properties for more than 20 years. Those two decades of award-winning work included residential and mixed-use projects in Boston before the company relocated to Southwest Florida.

There's no need to convince The Ginn Company President and CEO Bobby Ginn about the importance of a solid foundation. Having worked in the building and real estate development industry since his boyhood days as a young apprentice in his father's South Carolina business, Ginn understands full well that structures require sound foundations if they are to withstand the test of time.

Those same strong foundations are required by institutions of higher education. By laying the financial groundwork today, we ensure that the benefits of a college education are available to future students.

Today, those foundations have been reinforced at FGCU, thanks to The Ginn Company's generous pledge of $5 million in funding to the university. The money will help support a new engineering program that will eventually graduate highly skilled professionals who will add to the pool of high-wage earners in Southwest Florida.

"Partnering with FGCU was an easy decision for us," Ginn says. "Our company and our employees are committed to the local communities where we develop our residential and resort projects. So we're understandably pleased to help fund a new engineering program for such a fast-growing institution of higher education."

Because The Ginn Company's donation is unrestricted, the University can allocate the funds on a discretionary basis. Outlays for building an engineering facility, launching and operating the program, and underwriting scholarships and endowments are among the options under consideration.

Based in Celebration, Florida, The Ginn Company is one of the fastest-growing resort and real estate development and management firms in the Southeast, with nearly 20,000 acres currently in planning or development in Florida alone. The company specializes in creating master-planned leisure-lifestyle and recreation-oriented communities, primarily in Florida and other parts of the Southeast.

Bobby Ginn

Community service has been a hallmark in the lives of David and Linda Lucas. And when it comes to demonstrating their support of key community initiatives, education is at the top of their list. Their commitment to FGCU and their vision for sustainable growth have resulted in a gift of $2 million to establish the David and Linda Lucas Institute for Master Planned Community Development and Finance Endowed Fund. The gift will be matched by an additional $2 million in state funding.

David & Linda Lucas

The Lucas Institute is designed to fill a need not currently met by any other higher education institution in Florida, a state whose economy is significantly driven by the real estate industry. Culminating in an MBA with a concentration in real estate development, the program's major components will include capital formation, project management, land development and regulation, environmental management and real estate, in addition to a fundamental business curriculum.

"We welcome the opportunity to help Florida Gulf Coast University achieve its vision of becoming one of the nation's finest Universities. It takes all of us working together to build outstanding academic, sports and student programs that are not possible through state funding alone," Mr. and Mrs. Lucas say.

"We consider it a privilege to support FGCU and give back to the community."

As Chairman of The Bonita Bay Group, Mr. Lucas is one of the pioneers in advocating sustainable development with master planned communities that set the highest standards of land use, environmental preservation, water management and social infrastructure. Among the many awards the company has earned for setting new standards in community development is the national Award of Excellence from the Urban Land Institute (ULI).

In addition to serving on the FGCU Board of Trustees, Mr. Lucas also serves on the boards of several foundations and corporations, including the Southwest Florida Community Foundation, the Bonita Springs Community Foundation and the Lee County United Way. Mrs. Lucas is actively involved with her church and is the volunteer secretary for the Community Bible Study.

Expanding the reach of human knowledge is at the heart of every great institution of higher learning. Breakthroughs in biotechnology. Advances in medicine. A better understanding of the ecological dynamics that sustain the natural environment. Research into such diverse areas serves to deepen our understanding of the world in which we live.

With the support of the Naples Botanical Garden (NBG), FGCU is establishing a living laboratory of research, conservation and education at NBG that will allow students and scholars to explore new areas of knowledge. The University-directed research and education facility will provide labs for faculty and students to conduct research that concentrates on applying biotechnology to plants, including medicine, hydrological and ecological applications, reproductive ecology and erosion control.

NBG President Sondra Quinn says, “Through this partnership, we will expand the scope of the guest experience at Naples Botanical Garden by engaging visitors in a variety of innovative learning opportunities.” A donation of one acre of land from NBG to FGCU and strategic gifts from a few friends make it possible for the University to build the facility, planned to span between 10,000 and 15,000 square feet and be completed within three years.

Donors to the facility are: Pfeffer-Beach Foundation, Inc.; Mr. and Mrs. James S. White; Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Buehler, Jr.; Juliet C. Sproul; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Kapnick; Carol and Thomas McCann; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Benson.

“The Board of the Naples Botanical Garden believes that a partnership with Florida Gulf Coast University is essential,” says Juliet C. Sproul, a member of both the FGCU Foundation Board and the Naples Botanical Garden Board. “The University brings the research and academic aspects to the partnership and the Garden brings an immense natural research resource. It is a win/win for both parties. I am proud to be supporting this important project.”

Naples Botanical Garden

The ability to read well opens the door to entire new worlds of opportunity. In fact, it is a cornerstone of learning. Unfortunately for some children, learning to read is not as easy as A-B-C. There are children in Southwest Florida whose futures are in jeopardy because of poor reading skills, an issue particularly troublesome among children in low-income communities. But FGCU is taking important steps to assist our youngest citizens with the support of a $750,000 grant from the Naples Children and Education Foundation.

Developing reading skills among children is crucial for success throughout their lives.

The Collier County Early Literacy and Reading Partnership for Educational Success Project is targeted at children ages 3 to 6. The program is designed to improve the fundamental pre-literacy skills in these preschoolers as it sets the stage for reading success in elementary school and throughout the children's lives.

Several years of research results have revealed measurable improvement in early reading readiness among children using the Early Literacy and Learning Model (ELLM) curriculum implemented at Head Start early education locations around Collier County, Fun Time Child Development Center, and in other Collier County preschools. Now, the new funding is allowing the program to expand. Scheduled for nearly 50 classrooms this year, much of the expansion will take place in Immokalee in Collier County. The program has a three-part approach: support for students in the classroom, promoting family participation in the child's reading efforts at home, and professional development support for teachers who work directly with young, at-risk students.

A vital part of ELLM is educating parents and other caregivers about the importance of their young students developing sound reading skills and creating a home environment that encourages reading.

The Naples Children and Education Foundation, which has raised millions of dollars for children's organizations, has been instrumental in advocating for children in Collier County.

Providing Opportunity to Students in Need

For students who simply cannot afford to go to college, the dream of a University degree usually remains out of reach. But William and Joan Attridge are committed to helping students' dreams come true. The Cape Coral couple has established the Joan and William Attridge Endowed Scholarship Fund with a deferred gift of $500,000, which will qualify for state matching funds. Preference will be given to students from Cape Coral who need financial assistance.

"We have been very impressed as we've watched the University grow, and we wanted to support the effort," Mr. Attridge says. "What better way than to help students get their education who might not otherwise be able to attend because they couldn't afford it?" Because the endowed scholarship fund enables future local students to pursue their educational dreams, all of Southwest Florida will benefit.

"The area is becoming younger and younger, with increasing numbers of potential University students," he says. "We have a real opportunity to develop a highly skilled and educated population. We think that's extremely important because it means a more prosperous future for all of Southwest Florida."

A Legacy of Learning

The late Thelma Oulton was passionate about the things she believed in, and education was among the many worthwhile issues she felt strongly about. Although family hardships forced her to leave high school in the 1920s to care for and support her younger brothers and sisters, Oulton left a legacy gift that will impact the lives of countless FGCU students in the years to come.

Upon her death at the age of 90, she established the Thelma and Edwin Oulton Scholarship Fund with an initial gift of $245,000. The gift will receive a 50 percent match from the state, boosting the endowment to $367,500. An additional significant trust fund will be added to the scholarship fund at a later date. Jim Kerr, a Bonita Springs attorney and a close friend who handled Oulton's estate planning after the death of her husband, Edwin, knew her well. "One day, she asked me how I got through school, and I told her about my scholarships," he recalls. "She was intrigued by that and very much interested in the potential of the new University. She was intelligent and socially conscious."

As someone who always looked to the future and took an active role in advancing the causes that served to improve the lives of those around her, Oulton's legacy will now touch the lives of FGCU students as they expand their own horizons.

Touching Lives Through Learning

Barbara J. June, the niece of the late Ed and Esther Kuss, fondly remembers the longtime community activists in the Fort Myers area whose legacy of commitment lives on through their establishment of a charitable trust to provide scholarship support to University students. “They really embodied the meaning of commitment to one’s community. The youth of Fort Myers will continue to benefit from their undying love for the Fort Myers area,” says June.

The Kusses moved to the area in the 1960s and quickly became involved in the community. Mr. Kuss helped spearhead efforts to establish a Veteran’s Clinic. After the clinic opened, the couple volunteered countless hours in the clinic pharmacy. Mrs. Kuss was also a Michigan State Fair Blue Ribbon baker whose cakes made every occasion special. A strong belief in education and its importance to the future of Southwest Florida were an important part of the Kuss’ lives. In addition to supporting FGCU, they also bequeathed scholarship funds to a number of other local educational institutions. June says, “They recognized that the education of the young people of Fort Myers was a means to help the community grow and thrive.”

As during their lives, the Kuss’ commitment to education has now become part of their legacy – a legacy that will touch the lives of FGCU students well into the future.

The Fabric of Success

Marvin and Helene Gralnick are quite familiar with the fabric of success. As founders of Fort Myers-based Chico's FAS, the couple has built a top performing women's fashion and accessories retail operation known for its appealing style, customer loyalty and corporate substance. Now they and the company have demonstrated their commitment to helping students stitch together their own fabric of success. To honor its founders, Chico's FAS established the Marvin and Helene Gralnick Scholarship Fund, which will support FGCU students whose studies are focused on entrepreneurship or art.

Chico's established the fund with a total of $250,000, the largest scholarship established at FGCU by a business in Lee County. When combined with state matching funds, the value of the scholarship endowment increases to $387,500. "Education is the bottom line for success in our young people," says Cole Peacock, Chico's community development manager. "The University is a major asset to the future of Southwest Florida. It is the engine for a highly educated population, which is extremely important to positive growth in our area."

The Gralnicks founded Chico's in 1983 in a small store on Sanibel Island, selling Mexican folk art and cotton sweaters. Over the past two decades, the company, which Mrs. Gralnick named after a friend's bilingual parrot, has become a leader in women's clothing and related accessories.

Supporting the Promise of Education

Noted American author Miriam Beard once wrote, "the results of philanthropy are always beyond calculation." It's hard to imagine an endeavor in which that observation resonates more clearly than education. Students who depend on financial support to sustain themselves during their college years often impact the world in ways more significant than anyone could ever imagine.

Brian and Denise Cobb, Naples philanthropists committed to assisting young people, believe in the promise of education. That commitment has resulted in the Brian and Denise Cobb Endowed Scholarship Fund, a $150,000 endowment that will support FGCU students majoring in Communication. The Cobbs' support of the University extends their years of work on behalf of today's youth. They are co-founders and board members of the Naples Children and Education Foundation. Additionally, Mr. Cobb is the board chair and Mrs. Cobb a committee chair of the Naples Winter Wine Festival, which in three years has raised more than $10 million for children's causes. He is also a member of FGCU's Board of Trustees.

Brian & Denise Cobb

The Cobbs are distinguished in the communications industry. Mr. Cobb has built a renowned 30-year career in the broadcasting industry. He is the founder and president of CobbCorp LLC, a national media merger and acquisition company. Mrs. Cobb's career in broadcasting spans 25 years as an award-winning television producer, on-air talent, station manager, consultant and station owner.

Broadening the World of Education

Knowledge comes to life when students combine classroom learning with real world experience. Thanks to a three-year $60,000 gift from the Meftah Scholarship Foundation of Naples, FGCU students will be able to travel and study abroad to enhance their learning and expand their horizons.

The Meftah International Internship Program gives students hands-on learning in a living laboratory, as well as the chance to develop an understanding of other cultures as they travel abroad. Two participants in the Meftah International Program in 2003 traveled to the island of Roatan, Honduras. At 49 square miles, Roatan is the largest and most developed of the three main Bay Islands off the northern coast of Honduras. There, the students worked at an FGCU-operated field school that focuses on ethnographic studies, and explores cultural evolution and traditions. Roatan has three centuries of interaction between the peoples of England, Spain and the Americas.

The program was so successful that this year, 10 students majoring in Anthropology, English, Environmental Studies and Spanish participated. Among the students' activities were the collection of information on gardening practices in Honduras' Bay Islands and the sharing of these practices with the Naples Botanical Garden, among other organizations. The six-week summer program provides between six and nine credit hours of coursework taught by FGCU faculty.

Excelling in the School of Life

Sometimes, life itself is the greatest teacher. That is certainly the case for Fort Myers resident Joyce Rogaski, who has established FGCU's first endowed fellowship with a $100,000 commitment that will benefit deserving graduate students in the current nursing program and in future criminal justice and forensics programs. The gift is eligible for a 50 percent state match, which will increase the Joyce Rogaski Graduate Fund to $150,000.

Mrs. Rogaski and her late husband, Emory, previously established the Joyce and Emory H. Rogaski Endowed Scholarship Fund at FGCU. The Rogaskis embody commitment and self-directed learning. They grew up on impoverished farms in Ohio and did not have the opportunity to attend college. They worked hard all of their lives, including successfully owning two restaurants. Mrs. Rogaski also once worked as a nurse and Emory practiced real estate.

Throughout their lives, they learned that education opens many doors. Providing students the keys to those doors is a dream come true for Mrs. Rogaski. "When we gave the first scholarship, it was the best day of my life," she says. Of her fellowship gift she adds, "This is the second best day of my life."

“Krafting” an FGCU Education

Kraft Construction President and CEO Fred Pezeshkan is a man who believes in focusing on the future – after being forced to flee Iran with his family during the Islamic revolution in 1979, the future was all he had. He found that future with Kraft Construction in Naples more than two decades ago, and has helped build the company into one of the leading construction management firms on Florida’s west coast.

Now, thanks to the Kraft Construction Company Scholarship Fund, FGCU students will be able to craft their futures too. Under the leadership of Pezeshkan and company Chairman Robert L. Carsello, Kraft Construction enhanced their company’s endowed scholarship with a gift of $100,000. State matching funds raise the total value of the endowment to $150,000 to support students majoring in business. In addition, Kraft Construction contributed $50,000 in operating dollars to begin the Lucas Institute of Master Planned Community Development and Finance.

Pezeshkan, who is Chair Emeritus of the FGCU Foundation, draws from his own life experience to recognize that obstacles can arise on the road to achieving goals in life. Accordingly, the scholarship stipulates that “full consideration should be given to those students who are working to the best of their ability, even under less than ideal life circumstances, and that the values of hard work, perseverance and the ability to achieve goals” are important factors. Factors that in any equation add up to success – both in business and in life.

Nursing Scholarship Provides Dose of Education

With the nation facing a critical shortage of nurses, the health care industry is working to develop more of these crucial frontline practitioners. Closer to home, the health care industry is a vital and growing component of the Southwest Florida region, with nurses being called upon to deliver quality care for the ever-expanding population.

Thanks to Blue Cross and Blue Shield (BCBS) of Florida, FGCU is positioned to prepare the next generation of these care providers. BCBS’s gift of $100,000 to establish the Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida Nursing Scholarship Fund will support students in the College of Health Professions’ School of Nursing. The University has applied for $50,000 in state matching funds. “This scholarship gift will assist us in attracting highly qualified students,” says Dr. Karen Miles, director, School of Nursing and Southwest Florida Endowed Chair of Nursing. “In turn, the Southwest Florida community will benefit by having more well-educated nurses who can deliver high quality health care to its citizens.”

FGCU offers both undergraduate (BSN) and graduate (MSN) degrees in nursing, with master level students having concentrations in Primary Health Care (including specialty areas in Nurse Practitioner and Nurse Educator) and Nurse Anesthesia. BCBS of Florida is the oldest and largest health plan provider in the state of Florida, providing coverage to 3.5 million Floridians.

College Club Apartments

Joining the Club

It's easy to see the physical support that College Club Apartments is providing the University. A visit to the site of the nearby student-oriented apartments on Ben Hill Griffin Parkway reveals an SCM Properties community that is attracting plenty of attention from students who are interested in off-campus housing.

Now, SCM Properties is providing financial support as well. Under the leadership of Naples developer Frank Potestio, the company has established the College Club

Apartments Endowed Scholarship Fund with a gift commitment of $100,000 that will be eligible for a state match of $50,000. The scholarship funding will provide financial assistance to deserving students as they work toward their degree at FGCU. "It's simply that we support the University," says Potestio, who also developed The Fairway Preserve at Olde Cypress and St. Croix Apartments in Pelican Marsh. "FGCU benefits the entire region."

Located just north of the University on the west side of Ben Hill Griffin Parkway, College Club Apartments features upscale 4-bed/4-bath and 3-bed/3-bath apartments, along with a spacious community Clubhouse, swimming pool, and plenty of student-friendly amenities.

Florida Gulf Coast University is proud of the achievements of its graduates and of their growing contributions to their communities and the world. There are currently approximately 4,000 FGCU alumni located in over 30 Florida counties, many states, as well as outside the United States.

Designed to keep alumni and friends connected to campus, the premier issue of FGCU's alumni magazine debuted in April 2004.

Many FGCU alumni have made a positive impact on the Southwest Florida community by becoming award-winning teachers, law enforcement personnel, nurses, social workers, business leaders and volunteer board members. Others have entered law schools, medical schools and other graduate professional programs.

The 2003-2004 academic year has been a busy one for our young and vibrant Alumni Association. FGCU established the inaugural Alumni Association Board that developed by-laws, a mission statement, approved a dues program, published the first alumni magazine, and established membership and fundraising programs that are open to all graduates of FGCU and friends of the University.

The Alumni Association's commemorative brick pavers are featured on the Alumni Patio that connects the Student Services Plaza and the Student Union.

These efforts are paying off, and the Alumni Association is pleased to announce it has received its first major scholarship gift of $5,000. The anonymous donor, who is an FGCU graduate, has challenged the Alumni Board to match the gift to establish an endowed scholarship named for the Alumni Association.

The Alumni Association continues to develop dynamic and growing initiatives designed to establish and strengthen alumni and friends' ties to the University. Among these efforts are: creation of the Student Alumni Association, pre-game gatherings at Eagle basketball games, career development programs, and a commemorative brick paver program. The popular and decorative pavers dot the Alumni Patio that connects the Student Services Plaza and the Student Union.

Eagle Athletics Soar to New Heights

University athletics had a banner year in 2003-2004, capped off by full membership admission to the National Collegiate Athletics Association (NCAA) Division II ranks. The achievement means that Eagle athletes and athletic teams can now compete for NCAA II national titles and awards. Additionally, the University will now be eligible to host NCAA postseason tournaments and have NCAA voting privileges.

Donors Provide the Winning Edge

The Intercollegiate Athletics program is blessed with talented coaches, student-athletes committed to excellence, and donors who see the value of both quality academics and athletics. Friends of the program, local business and industry, and many others contribute generously to FGCU's program. The state of Florida does not fund Intercollegiate Athletics, so this generosity has been and will continue to be the key to success.

On The Diamond

The Eagle baseball team compiled a record of 38-18 in 2004, improving their career record to 73-33 (68.9%) over two seasons. The Eagles faced a tough schedule, including nine teams ranked in the NCAA II Top 20. Senior third baseman Chris Brown led the team in nearly all offensive categories, including hitting .415 at the plate. On the softball diamond, the FGCU women's team played its way to a 41-13-1 record this year, improving on last season's 33-17 posting. Junior pitcher Kelly Powe shut down opponents to finish with a 22-7 record and a dominating 0.63 ERA. Junior outfielder Ashley Cecil was a force on offense, as her .382 batting average led the team for the second year in a row.

Basketball

In hoops action, the men's and women's basketball teams

continued their winning ways. The men's team hustled to a strong 22-5 season, defeating two NCAA Division I opponents. The Eagles improved their two-season career mark to 45-14 (76.2%) and were led by senior Leighton Bowie, who averaged 19.5 points per game. The women's basketball team scrapped its way to an 18-8 season, bringing their career record to 48-9 (84.2%) over the past two seasons. Senior Robyn Swain led the team, averaging 14 points and 12 rebounds per game. Newcomer

Andrea Clarke also provided a key spark, averaging 11.4 points and 5 rebounds per game.

Tennis

On the tennis courts, both the men’s and women’s teams served up outstanding seasons. The men’s team finished the year ranked 15th in the nation in NCAA Division II, compiling an 18-5 record. Junior Richard Stempnowski was ranked 15th in NCAA Division II

On the women’s side, the Eagles finished the season 14-9 and were ranked 29th in the nation. Junior Juliana Garcia led the team and finished ranked No. 12 in NCAA II singles, and No. 10 in doubles with Jesse Yaneva.

Golf

Both the men’s and women’s teams enjoyed successful seasons on the links. The men’s team won five tournaments this year. Joey Lamielle and the Eagles soared onto the national scene, with the sophomore ranked as high as No. 8 in the country for all divisions of NCAA golf. Lamielle won five tournaments and is poised to lead the Eagles to a NCAA II National Championship in 2004-2005. Not to be outdone, the women’s team also enjoyed an outstanding season, winning back-to-back tournaments in the fall: the Nova Southeastern University (NSU) Fall Invitational and the Bethune-Cookman Invitational. The team finished with a combined record of 70-24. Three seniors who have been instrumental in helping to build the young program graduated in May: Holly Eaton, Heather Mize and Adrian Secret.

Cross Country

The FGCU Cross Country team went the distance this year as well. The team was led by Carolyn Johnstone, who broke the school record in the 5K four times during the season. She holds the record for the FGCU women’s 5K at 20:13, set at the Walt Disney World Cross Country Invitational. Leading the men’s team this season, freshman Edison Vasquez set the men’s team record in the 8K with a time of 28:47 at the Walt Disney World competition. Johnstone and Vasquez capped their seasons by earning the prestigious Golden Eagle Award at the team’s annual banquet.

President's Celebration – Renaissance 2004

The Renaissance was a time of awakening. A time of new ideas. A time of new discoveries. At FGCU, it was a time of celebration! Under the leadership of Duane Stranahan, Jr. and Dr. Stephen S. McIntosh, more than 600 people gathered at the President's Celebration 2004 to mark past achievements, envision the future, and recognize the friends and supporters who help make it all possible. Gross revenue from the event was $621,000.

Alico Arena was magically transformed into a Renaissance English garden for a night. The evening's witty, highbrow Queen of the Ball in full regalia kept the audience chuckling with delight. The ceremonial knighting of Linda and David Lucas into the Order of the Majestic Eagle provided a poignant highlight of the evening, which provided a wonderful opportunity for revelers to dress up in exquisite period costumes, meet new friends, talk about the exciting future of the University, and dance the night away.

The Ginn Company, recognized as the Majestic Benefactor, sponsored the festive event, along with 55 other companies. Other major sponsors included: College Club Apartments, Coastal Village, Comcast, The Registry Resort and Club, Miromar, Robin and Duane Stranahan, Jr., Wachovia, WCI, Congress Jewelers, McDonald Financial Group, NCH Healthcare System and O'Donnell Landscapes, Inc.

Founder's Cup Golf Tournament

Golf has always been a game of numbers: yards to hole, wind speed, slope of the green. Now add this number: $487,000. That's the amount raised over the past 12 years by the FGCU Founder's Cup Golf Tournament. And for the second year in a row, the October 2003 tournament, which generated $70,000 in funding support, had a sold-out field of 65 teams composed of 260 golfers.

The tournament dates back to the announcement that a new University would be built in Southwest Florida, and support has increased every year. "The continued support by our business community is indicative of the excellent foundation upon which this event has been built," FGCU President William C. Merwin says.

Since the tournament's inception in 1991, The Bonita Bay Group has hosted the event; this year, Bonita Bay's Mediterra community played host. Tournament proceeds benefit the FGCU Foundation, which provides funding to enhance scientific, educational and athletic programs that support the University's mission, but which are outside the scope of state funding.

Among the many features at the Lee County/FGCU Aquatics Center is a 50-meter Olympic competition pool.

In the Swim: Aquatics Center Grand Opening

In a gold medal-winning performance, the new Lee County/FGCU Aquatics Center opened its doors in January 2004 – remarkably, just one year and nine days after the groundbreaking. After the ribbon-cutting ceremony, 300 attendees were treated to a swimming exhibition by Swim Florida and the Gulf Coast Swim Team. The attendees included members of the University community, representatives from Lee County and the City of Fort Myers, and members of the area business community.

The remarkable new facility houses a 50-meter Olympic competition pool and a 25-yard recreational pool with 1-meter and 3-meter diving boards, plus locker and shower facilities for men and women. It also includes an office for pool management and a large entrance lobby.

FGCU received $4,515,000 from Lee County to construct the facility after the County Commission chose the FGCU site. Lee County school children, the general public, local swim clubs and FGCU community members utilize the Olympic-size pool. Swim Florida, in conjunction with FGCU, provides a variety of recreational and competitive programs, such as water aerobics, swimming lessons and lifeguard certifications.

Attendees enjoyed a silent auction as part of the festivities.

Chinese New Year's Celebration

In the Chinese culture, New Year's Day is celebrated as a time of gathering and thanksgiving. So it was fitting that members of the FGCU community gathered with Southwest Florida residents in January at La Playa in Naples to mark the Chinese New Year – the Year of the Monkey.

Thanks to an initial gift by Robert and Kay Gow and Dr. Gow's leadership, the event benefited the University's Renaissance Academy. The Academy is committed to providing lifelong learning opportunities, a mission supported by the Academy's establishment of a Chinese Studies Program. The program offers unique insight into the history, art and culture of the world's oldest civilization and its influence upon other Asian nations – insight that is particularly important as China takes its place as one of the great powers of the 21st century.

In the Chinese calendar, each year is named, in sequence, for one of twelve symbolic animals. The monkey is the ninth creature in the Chinese zodiac. Gods in Chinese legend sometimes appear in the guise of a monkey, which is frequently depicted holding a peach, the symbol of longevity.

Several Kleist family members joined FGCU and Lee County representatives for the groundbreaking of the Kleist Health Education Center, including (from left) Kleist granddaughter Jennifer McMillen, son-in-law Coulter Evans, daughter Julie Evans, Eleanore Kleist, FGCU Foundation member Joseph Catti, Peter Kleist, Lee County Schools Superintendent James Browder and FGCU President William C. Merwin.

Kleist Health Education Center Groundbreaking

Health education at the University got just what the doctor ordered this year with the groundbreaking of the Kleist Health Education Center building. Made possible through the combined $1-million gift of Eleanore and Peter Kleist and the Peter and Eleanore A. Kleist Foundation, the new Center will become the permanent home of the Kleist Health Education Center. The Center had been previously housed in Griffin Hall.

The Kleists were on hand to watch the ceremonial first step for the building, which will house three teaching theaters and a small auditorium to accommodate growth in attendance and to allow for an expansion of programs. “The FGCU Kleist Health Education Center is the only one of its kind in Florida,” executive director Kathryn Kleist says. “It is designed to help participants of all ages learn to live a healthier lifestyle and to show that learning about health is fun.”

The Center features life-size displays, dynamic models and multimedia presentations. Interactive, animated exhibits with light and sound help demonstrate good health habits and nutrition, and help explain the cycle of life to children, teens and adults.

President’s Scholarship Luncheon

Too often, the generous supporters who provide funding for scholarships and the students who benefit from those scholarships never have the chance to meet. Creating that opportunity is the purpose of the annual President’s Scholarship Luncheon. Now in its fifth year, the luncheon was held at Alico Arena, where more than 350 donors and students enjoyed chatting over a casual meal.

This popular event gives donors a chance to meet the scholarship recipients face to face and listen to students share stories of how their scholarships have affected their lives. It’s also a chance for students to offer a personal thank you to donors who are helping them advance their education.

FGCU’s own University Singers performed “I’m Gonna Lift My Voice and Sing,” and the University’s alma mater, “Where Our Wings Will Take Us.”

The event is sponsored by the FGCU Foundation, which awarded 272 scholarships in the 2003-2004 academic year totaling more than $373,690. Scholarship awards for the 2004-2005 academic year are on pace to exceed $400,000.

Chefs from top area resorts prepared their favorite delicacies for guests at the 2004 Wanderlust fundraiser, which for the first time helped support the development of FGCU's Resort and Hospitality Management Program.

Wanderlust Leads to Program Support

The very word wanderlust shares a kindred spirit with the delights of vacation travel. So it seems fitting that the 10th Annual Wanderlust fundraiser for the first time helped financially support the development of FGCU's Resort & Hospitality Management Program.

Held at The Registry Resort and Club in Naples, the much-anticipated soiree drew a crowd of 600 people for a fun night of live and silent auctions, a culinary contest among top chefs, and dining on the chefs' delicious efforts. The battle for taste buds was heated, with 10 chef teams from the area's top resorts preparing their favorite delicacies.

Wanderlust was designated this year as the Resort & Hospitality Management Program's primary annual fundraising event. It is sponsored by a number of the area's premier hospitality companies, including The Registry Resort and Club and Sanibel Harbour Resort and Spa. A total of $264,500 was raised through ticket sales and the dual auctions, which included golf and spa packages and a host of travel packages, including an African safari.

The funds will be used for scholarships and to help offset operating costs for the hospitality program.

Margaret S. Sugden Welcome Center Dedication

In many ways, University life is all about a sense of arrival. Students arrive at their collegiate destination after years of hard work. Scholarship arrives in the classroom and is transferred to students from professors as new knowledge. And, of course, campus visitors and members of the University community arrive on campus each day.

That sense of arrival on campus took on a whole new meaning with the dedication of the Margaret S. Sugden Welcome Center. The Sugden Center, which will provide much-needed student support services space and orientation space for guests and prospective students, was made possible through the $1-million donation of Naples philanthropists Herbert J. and Margaret S. Sugden; the gift was matched by the state. Last year the Sugdens established a first-of-its-kind Resort & Hospitality Management program at FGCU with a $5-million gift.

Members and friends of the Sugden family, along with University and community officials, attended the dedication of the new facility, located at the main entrance to the University. The Sugden Welcome Center features a spacious orientation theater with state-of-the-art teaching equipment, space for student-centered displays, as well as administrative office space.
